The site on which 2324 MLK Jr. Blvd. is located was formally the site of 2314 and 2322 West Broad Street. These structures, built on the corners of the block, were built between 1898 and 1916. Sanborn Maps indicate that the parcels between the corner buildings remained vacant. Around 1975, a new building was constructed that effectively enveloped the two buildings and infilled the space between them. It appears that the only original exterior materials are the roof and chimneys. The interiors of the buildings have been opened up and converted into a large furniture showroom space.
